Samuel D. Rauch, III Deputy Assistant Administrator for Regulatory Programs National Marine Fisheries Service 1315 East-West Highway Silver Spring, MD 20910

Dear Mr. Rauch:

I write as a follow-up to my letter to you, dated June 20, 2017, concerning the enforcement action against Carlos Rafael.

In that letter, I urged the Fisheries Service to consider the concept of a global disposition of the Rafael matter in which Rafael would sell off his fishing boats and permits to New Bedford-based businesses, and use the proceeds to satisfy his monetary penalties. Such an arrangement would serve the twin purposes of punishing Rafael for his regulatory violations while the Port of New Bedford would avoid a significant reduction in overall fishing activity. It is my understanding that since then attorneys for NMFS and Rafael have engaged in discussions along these lines.

As these discussions proceed, I wish to raise with the Fisheries Service an important issue that will need to be resolved as part of any resolution. It has become apparent that at least half of Rafael's 33 vessels, all of which are docked in New Bedford, require repairs so expensive that they can no longer be operated profitably. (A list of all of his vessels is attached to this letter).

I am concerned that if these practically defunct vessels are not sold as part of a global resolution, they might be abandoned at the piers where they are now docked. To the extent that occurs, the responsibility for disposing of the vessels ultimately will fall to the New Bedford Port Authority. The expense would be considerable, as most of the boats would need to be sold for scrap metal at a likely net loss, and Port Authority is unaware of any government program to offset the expense. The situation presents a looming financial and environmental problem for the Port of New Bedford.

I believe there is a straightforward solution. Insofar as the parties to the civil enforcement matter are negotiating a monetary penalty against Rafael, we believe it would be in everyone's interest if a portion of the penalty were set aside in a fund to address the costs of the disposition of the vessels he cannot otherwise sell. Once the vessels are disposed of, the remaining funds could revert to the Service.

As I understand it, the parties have not yet finalized a fine level so the opportunity exists to pursue the solution I have outlined. Toward that end, I have directed counsel for the Port Authority to follow up with your team regarding this proposal.

Thank you for your consideration of this important matter.

Jon Mitch Mayo
